

Tata, Dorabji, Mausoleum

Dorabji's mausoleum stands to the left of that of his father, Jamsetjee Tata, and is the most flamboyant of the three buildings. The style combines Egyptian and Classical features and has, in addition to elaborate bronze work, polychromatic ceramic plaques to either side of the entrance depicting Persian warriors bearing spears.

Brookwood Cemetery
Glades House
Cemetery Pales
Brookwood
Surrey
GU24 0BL

Architects

Not known

Year Built

1932

Style

Egyptian Revival

Listing

--

Condition

Good (2006)

History

Sir Dorabji Tata (1859-1932), Jamsetji's older son, was closely involved in the fulfilment of his father's industrial and educational projects. An athletic and adventurous man, he joined the explorer, C W Weld, in an expedition to find iron ore of sufficient quality for industrial use. In 1910 he was knighted for his contribution to the advance of Indian industry.

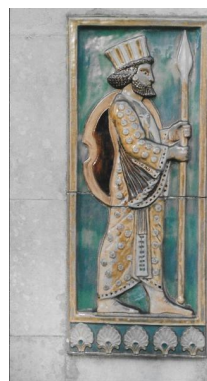

Sources

Notes compiled by Ian Simpson on burials in Brookwood Cemetery provided August 2007

Online Links

Brookwood Cemetery website Tata Archibbes website Twickenham Museum website

Photos

Location

SatNav Co-ordinates: 51.30317620892347, -0.6351380473056106